Hartford, CT – This Friday at 7 p.m., Connecticut Network viewers will go inside both chambers of the General Assembly for updates on the bills being discussed as the end of the legislative session draws near on CT-N Capitol Report: Week in Review.

There are just days left in the 2015 Legislative Session and both the House of Representatives and State Senate have picked up their pace as their June 3 deadline rapidly approaches. This week's episode will review the bills that were debated this week, including bills related to electricity costs in the state, pay equity between men and women, the use of seclusion and restraint in schools and the notification process for the use of pesticides at public schools. Capitol Report will also highlight a special moment that occurred at the Capitol this week as a young boy named Hunter watched a bill that he inspired go through the legislative process.

Capitol Report: Week in Review summarizes the activity at the State Capitol during the week, using voice over and graphics to combine history, context, and next steps in the process with full-length excerpts from the week's proceedings. The program premieres on CT-N every Friday night at 7:00 p.m., then rebroadcasts at Noon and 7:00 p.m. on Saturdays, 8:00 p.m. on Sundays, and 6:00 a.m. Monday mornings; check CT-N's online program schedule for additional airtimes.
