Governor's Goals, Bail Reform and State Aid for Education on CT-N Capitol Report: Week in Review

Hartford, CT – This Friday at 7 p.m. Connecticut Network (CT-N) viewers will recap a media briefing with Governor Dannel Malloy where he laid out his goals for the current session, Judiciary Committee bills concerning bail reform & criminal justice, and a proposal from the Education Committee focused on state aid for municipalities on the latest episode of CT-N Capitol Report: Week in Review.

As the 2017 Legislative Session hits its halfway mark, Governor Malloy held a media briefing in his office where he highlighted his top three goals for this session. The Governor also took time this week to attend a forum held by the Judiciary Committee where he discussed two bills he would like to see passed that concern bail reform and juvenile justice. Two days later the Judiciary Committee convened again to hold a public hearing where they heard testimony on a Senate bill that would legalize and allow the retail sale and taxation of marijuana in Connecticut.

Capitol Report will also review a bill put out by the Education Committee that concerns how much state aid municipalities should get for education, in contrast to the Governor's sweeping proposals, and a bill that the Energy & Technology Committee voted on that could impact the future of the Millstone Nuclear Power Station in Waterford.
